SHORT BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Mark C. Thompson is Senior Research Fellow and Head of the Socioeconomics Program at King Faisal Center for Research and Islamic Studies (KFCRIS) in Riyadh. He was previously Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies at King Fahd University of Petroleum and Minerals (KFUPM), Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, (2012-2019) where he taught undergraduate courses in International Relations and Globalization.

Mark has lived and worked in Saudi Arabia since 2001 for diverse institutions such as Saudi Arabian Airlines, the Saudi Arabian National Guard, and Prince Sultan University. Mark holds a Ph.D. from the Institute of Arab & Islamic Studies, University of Exeter, UK, where he also taught a course on Political Reform in the Gulf. Mark also runs his own consultancy business that offers an objective perspective of contemporary Saudi sociopolitical, socioeconomic, and cultural issues.

His principal research areas are Saudi socioeconomic development and societal transformation, and he has published extensively on Saudi issues in publications such as the British Journal of Middle East Studies, Journal of Arabian Studies, Asian Affairs, Middle Eastern Studies, Middle East Policy; POMPE Studies, Chatham House, King Faisal Center for Research and Islamic Studies and Gulf Affairs. His books include "Saudi Arabia and the Path to Political Change: National Dialogue and Civil Society" (Bloomsbury IB Tauris, 2014), and "Being Young Male and Saudi: Identity and Politics in a Globalized Kingdom" (Cambridge University Press, 2019). Mark is also the co-editor with Dr. Neil Quilliam of "Policy-Making in the GCC: State, Citizens and Institutions" (Bloomsbury IB Tauris, 2017), "Governance and Domestic Policy Making in Saudi Arabia: Transforming Society, Economics, Politics, and Culture" (Bloomsbury IB Tauris 2022), and "Saudi Youth: Policies and Processes (Springer 2024). Presently Mark is researching and writing his second Cambridge University Press book "Male Youth Issues and Everyday Life in Saudi Arabia." Mark collaborates with diverse Saudi institutions on a variety of projects as well as making numerous presentations at international conferences, workshops, and seminars.
